

Dr. Charity Marsh explains the new Interactive Media and Performance Lab during its launch in the Riddell Centre at the U of R Wednesday afternoon. The newly established labs will be devoted to the study of DJ technologies, DJ music cultures and the social worlds in which they thrive.

CLIENT: University of Regina
R/TV STATION: CBC TV News Regina
TIME: 1812 hours DATE: April 2, 2008
TOPIC: New Spin on Hip Hop and DJ Culture

Costa Maragos - Anchor:

Hip hop is one of the most popular forms of music in the country, and it is usually associated with life in big cities. So why is a researcher at the University of Regina studying the role it plays in our lives? The CBC's Lachlin Madill asked her.

Lachlin Madill - Reporter:

Charity Marsh isn't just spinning discs. She's conducting serious research on hip hop and DJ cultures. She will be spending a lot of time doing it in two new interactive media and performance labs at the University of Regina's Fine Arts faculty.
